Hello Professor,

This project is a work in progress and the zip file containing the code might only run in IntelliJ, and the program is only able to establish a local connection that can only be accessed by the host itself because I am still figuring out how to broadcast a server for multiple people. Also, the code that I wrote for this program is not completely my creation because I watched some YouTube tutorials on Java's Socket library and that's when I started this project and speaking of this project, I am trying to create a local network messaging client that would be just accessible to me and my room mates.

But yeah it still needs a lot of work and I need a lot of knowledge to complete this project.

Thanks
